

Abstract

The present invention provides a biological process for the synthesis of oxide nanoparticles by simple exposure of suitable aqueous metal ions to a hydrolyzing fungus. The method specifically comprises reacting of a suitable electrolyte solution with a hydrolyzing
5 wet fungus.

10

15

20

25

30